bring vocational agriculture enrollment at the high school to a record 154 students, refreshments will be served following the Greenhand ceremony. In the above photo, left to right, are: Gary Forshee, secretary; Earl Forshee,

OLIVE GROWERS ORGANIZING

PORTERVILLE, Oct. 2 — Formation of a permanent organization, and a "united front" in relation to prices that they will accept from canners were the major objectives decided on when independent olive growers of this area met twice in Porterville this week.

Prices to be asked by growers from canners were set up on the following scale: Missions and Manzanillos, standards, $135 per ton; mediums, $175; large, $200; extra large, $220, and mammoth, $235.

Ascolanos, extra large, $75 per ton; mammoth, $135; giant, $160; jumbo, $210; colossal, $265, and super colossal, $350.

Sevillanos, mammoth, $75 a ton; giant, $160; jumbo, $210; colossal, $265 and super colossal, $350.

Canners last week offered prices starting at $100 per ton for standard Manzanillo and Mission varieties and $100 for giant size Sevillano and Ascolano varieties, with average prices ranging from $50 to $85 per ton lower than recommendations of the olive committee of the Tulare County Farm Bureau.

Prices agreed upon by the independent grower group are in line with the Farm Bureau recommendations for the most part, although some are slightly lower.

At a meeting in Porterville Tuesday night, 125 growers, representing 6,000 tons, agreed to divert their crop to oil, or not pick at all unless the higher prices are paid.

It is stated that Libbey is expected to be a buyer.

EVERYONE IS BUSY ALONG THE AVENUE AS COMMUNITY MOVES INTO FALL SEASON

PORTERVILLE, Oct. 2 — Everyone is busy along the avenue these days as the community moves into the fall season with an election, then Christmas just ahead; if you doubt people are busy, ask someone to serve on a committee.

But there is still time for some to speculate about the audit report that is expected to be presented at next Tuesday's city council meeting.

And from out Barn theater way, we hear that "White Sheep of the Family" is a real good show — and it's running this Friday and Saturday nights, as well as the same nights the following week.

BUTTERFIELD CARAVAN STOPS IN PORTERVILLE NEXT WEDNESDAY NIGHT

PORTERVILLE, Oct. 2 — A daring and significant business venture of the past will be commemorated next week as the Butterfield Overland Mail Centennial Caravan arrives in Porterville Wednesday afternoon, forms its night corral in the municipal ball park, picks up special mail early in the morning on Thursday, and moves north, enroute from Tipton, Missouri, to San Francisco, California.

The caravan is following as closely as possible the old Butterfield Stage route; the Tule River Stage station was one of the stops and Porterville's founder, R. Porter Putnam kept the stage in 1860 while the Butterfield line was still in operation.

The Centennial is being observed with issuance of a special commemorative stamp and the U. S. Postal service has reconditioned its first highway postoffice vehicle to travel with the caravan, pick up mail, and serve as a modern Butterfield stage.

In the caravan will be special historical displays; just what type of program, if any, will be presented in Porterville, is not definite as we go to press, since no Porterville organization as yet has seen fit to take on the job of arranging for reception of the caravan.

The public is invited to the ball park Wednesday evening to see the caravan, however.

Significance of the Butterfield Overland mail was that it was the first successful operation to speed up delivery of mail on a regular schedule across country from the end of the railroad in Missouri to the rapidly growing California area.

In 1857 the postmaster general commissioned John Butterfield to establish the stage line. A year later, on September 16, 1858, stages left San Francisco, east-bound, and Tipton, Missouri, west-bound, to establish a twice-a-week, southern route schedule that operated with remarkable efficiency until March of 1861, when, because of north-south tension, Congress voted to discontinue the line.

Butterfield coaches carried three letter sacks, averaging 170 pounds, and a newspaper bag of about 140 pounds. The company received $600,000 per year from the federal government for carrying the mail, while passenger fare for the trip west was $200.

Nine passengers could ride inside the Concord stage used on the run, with six more on the outside. Average speed for the 2,886-mile trip was about five miles per hour; the trip was made in less than 25 days. There were no layovers enroute, passengers sleeping sitting up, however at certain intervals.

WATER VOTE SET OCTOBER 21

PORTERVILLE, Oct. 2 — Next major move on the local water front — an election October 21 in the Tea Pot Dome Water district to determine whether or not the district shall contract with the federal government for a supply of Central Valley project water, and for construction of a distribution system within the district.

Contract on which the vote will be taken provides for the acceptance by the district of up to 7,000 acre feet of Class 1 water annually, also a contract for construction of a $1,800,000 distribution system, with financing through an interest-free, federal loan.

Details of the plan to be voted on can be read in the legal notice column in this issue of The Farm Tribune; voters within the district have, or will receive, sample ballots with a statement of the proposition to be voted on.

There will be one polling place, located at the Meier residence, Avenue 128 and Road 252; poll

Subdivision Hearing Oct. 20

PORTERVILLE, Oct. 2 — October 20 has been set as date for a second public hearing on the proposed new division ordinance for Tulare county, with the hearing to be held in Porterville.

The first hearing was in Visalia, September 12; real estate men at this hearing said certain provisions of the ordinance are too restrictive.

MILT WENZEL GRADUATES AS AUCTIONEER

PORTERVILLE, Oct. 2 — Milt Wenzel is now qualified as an auctioneer, having recently graduated with top honors from Western College of Auctioneering, at Billings, Montana.

As a result of his diversified course at the college, Wenzel is now qualified to call sales on livestock, farms, liquidation, house, furniture and real estate.

And he will auction free for any charitable organization that desires his services.

OLIVE MEN HAVE RIGHT ANSWER

Independent olive growers in this area have been brought to a sudden realization of the necessity for organization as they face the prospect of a bumper crop and large holdover that has forced the offering price of canners to a point below the cost of production.

As individuals, olive growers who operate independently have little chance to successfully negotiate with canners — there are too many growers to work on, and, with only a few canners, there is often an understanding as to offering price.

So, just as in most segments of today's economy, organization becomes an important item, for through organization comes a united front, and from a united front comes bargaining power.

And, certainly, the thing that independent olive growers need, not only this year, but in the long haul, year after year, is bargaining power if they are to stabilize the somewhat traditional "feast and famine" aspect of olive production.

In two meetings that have been held in Porterville, independent olive producers have started to organize formally through the creation of a new association.

This represents a "right answer" for an attack upon their problems. It is to be hoped that this organization attempt is completed, that olive growers do stick together, that bargaining power is established, for it is not good for individuals, or for the general economy of the area, to have any segment of agriculture forced into below-cost operation.

And there is always an answer to be found if producers of a crop are organized to a point where they can sit down as a united unit, rather than as many individuals, and talk over mutual problems with those persons who must process that crop. There is usually an answer that will prove profitable for all parties concerned.

OUR TOWN

By Gardner (Bud) Wheeler

AS ANY RED-BLOODED AMERICAN parent will tell you, raising children is one merry round of crisis and problems. Day to day living sometimes becomes almost a struggle for survival, as the younger generation hatches one nefarious plot after another to keep parents' circulation racing madly. As any well-adjusted child will tell you, parents are notably hard-hearted and at times, almost totally devoid of understanding. This tolerant point of view naturally keeps the battle of the generations generating.

PERHAPS THE GREATEST FIELD for misunderstandings comes in the "accumulations department". Every child operates a built-in accumulation system whereby he acquires a vast multitude of totally useless articles. (Spoken like a parent, of course.)

No matter how big the house, it soon becomes cluttered with bric-a-brac that ranges from guppies, in the land of the living, to rocks, sticks, bats, old wire, etc., in the less animate field. All the oddments that children bring home are highly cherished, and any suggestion that they represent junk, is met with bursts of rebellion.

THE OTHER DAY, WE detected a slight lull in the traffic to and from the lower bathroom at our house. Usually, we get a bath

"GUESTIMATE" IS 28,000 CARLOADS OF NAVEL ORANGES IN ONCOMING CROPS FROM CALIFORNIA AND ARIZONA

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 2 — The consensus of experienced California and Arizona navel orange growers and shippers is that the oncoming navel crop will be about 28,000 carloads during the season beginning in November, according to the Sunkist Information office.

This would be about 46 percent more than the approximately 19,200 cars harvested from all areas during the past season — one of the smallest navel orange crops on record.

The growers who made these informal "guesstimates" emphasize that many things could happen to change the final out-turn but, at the moment, with the start of the harvesting season still two months away, they think things look pretty good.

In Central California predictions are for a crop of 16,500 cars compared with 12,710 during 1957-58, and in Southern California they are talking about a crop of 11,000 cars compared with only 5,919 this year. Only in Arizona is there pessimism that the harvest this year won't come up to the 596 cars shipped last season.

Guessing on the start of shipments' ranges between the 10th and 15th of November with volume movement expected the last week of that month.

Butterfield

stations, located about 20 miles apart, meal stops were made.

Men passengers were instructed to carry a Sharps rifle, a Colt Navy revolver, two pounds of balls, a knife and sheath. Since the stages did not carry gold, or other valuable items, they were not bothered by highwaymen, however, there was always the possibility of Indian trouble, although history records that there was actually no serious conflict with the Indians, yet stations along the route were heavily armed to prevent theft of horses and other livestock.

Postal rate on the Butterfield Overland Mail was 10 cents per letter; postal receipts for the first year were $27,229.94; during the last year, postal receipts increased to $119,766.76

Butterfield recruited experienced station agents and drivers, the operation was well organized, and spirit of the Butterfield line was exemplified by Butterfield's instructions to his drivers, "Remember, boys, nothing on God's earth must stop the United States mail."

In this area, Butterfield stations were located also at Fountain Springs, and at Packwood, just north of the present Lindsay. Tentative plan of the County Historical society now is to place historical markers at these sites on September 28.

by appointment only, but this looked like a golden opportunity to slip in an unscheduled and undisturbed dunking. Wading through sundry shoes and towels left hanging on the floor, we approached the tub and found it occupied by an aeroplane propeller. Occupied is hardly the word, because this was a nine foot wooden propeller and was lying across the tub. All the evidence indicated that the prop had been enjoying a sponge bath from loving hands. Fortunately, no plane was attached.

AS ANY RED-BLOODED AMERICAN parent can guess, our circulation started racing madly. We immediately showed the stubborn and hard-hearted part of our nature by refusing to take a bath with a propeller. There are some things we draw the line on. This occasioned somewhat of a crisis, but we further added that we would not tolerate such an object in said bathroom. To prove that parents are listened to, the prop was removed. It is now in the upstairs bathroom; all nine feet of it.

Some of this you probably think you're getting for free, but we are also selling pen fed steer manure for ninety five cents a bag. This is weed free, composted, vigorous, and guaranteed not to be hard to locate — even in the dark.

Next are perennial Asters — Perennial means you're stuck with them for more than one year, but being asters, they're colorful and easy to live with. These are fifty nine cents each and in bloom now. Also cutting grown Carnations, usually 35 cents each now 25 cents each, and a few odds and ends selling for more or less.

If Pirates "Jell", They're Even Money Against Coalinga In Conference Opener Saturday

PORTERVILLE, Oct. 2 — Coach Harry Kane hopes his Porterville College Pirate footballers will have started to "jell" by the time they meet the Coalinga College Falcons in a Central California conference opener Saturday night at Coalinga.

Two weekends ago, the relatively inexperienced Pirates didn't look good in a 40-12 loss to a strong Hartnell team.

Last week, however, the Pirates showed great improvement and held a definite edge in the statistics even though they lost an 18-12 decision to Los Angeles Harbor JC in a non-conference game at Wilmington. Against the Seahawks, Porterville held a 15-6 edge in first downs, and a 427-348 advantage in total yards gained. Fumbles and penalties cost the Pirates at least six of their scoring opportunities, Kane said.

A bright spot of the Harbor game was that no injuries developed. Also, Kane said there was a general improvement in the Pirates' line play as the predominantly freshman forward wall gained experience in the junior college type of football. The Pirate mentor was especially pleased with the improvement at the tackle positions. In the backfield, he praised the ball-carrying performances of Capt. Jim Boyett, Roger Cobb and Jerry Crawford.

Cobb, a sophomore halfback from Merced, was the work-horse against Harbor with 91 yards in 15 carries for a 6.1 average. Boyett made 58 yards in 13 carries. Crawford, a freshman speedster from Strathmore, had a 7.2 average with 79 yards in 11 carries.

Kane watched Coalinga drop a 22-16 decision to Palo Verde Junior College Saturday night and said Coach Sammy Vokes' Falcons apparently had a bad night. He said Coalinga has good depth and speed in the backfield, and a rugged first string line.

Probable Pirate starters against Coalinga will be Bill Milinich and Rich Lemas at ends, Larry Moss and Doug Weisser at tackles, Merle Bassett and Larry Cullen at guards, John Ferzacca at center, George Lewis at quarterback, Boyett and Jim Huey at halfbacks, Pine Flat reservoir on the Kings river, Fresno county, provided us with some excellent small mouth black bass fishing last week and there is no reason to believe it shouldn't continue to be good.

Favorite bait proved to be live hellgrammites followed by live minnows and then a fly and spinner combination. The fish run to about a pound or so with some hooked but not landed that were much larger.

The use of live minnows on Pine Flat is restricted by law to golden shiners, fatheads and mudsuckers which are obtainable in the area.

Enroute to Pine Flat we checked the Kings river below the dam and found some outstanding fly fishing results for wild rainbow running to a foot and longer. Anglers have to work for the fish but the results are certainly worth the effort.

The summer trout season in central and northern California ends with the end of October but Pine Flat reservoir is on the exception list and is expected to provide some very good trout fishing as the river above and below comes to a legal close.

One of our warden friends returned from the Junction Bluff country north of Mono Hot Springs in Fresno county and reported the fishing fabulous for big brown and rainbow trout. This is the junction of the Middle and South forks of the San Joaquin river and Miller's Crossing and is accessible by foot or by horseback, but it's rugged country.

Warden also reported fishing good in the Margaret lakes and the Marilyn group of lakes in the Fish Creek country. Furthermore that Huntington lake was providing some very good trout fishing by trolling but Edison lake was poor any way you worked it.

The lower Tuolumne and San Joaquin rivers to Maze bridge in Stanislaus county has been providing fair fishing.

Mountain quail season will be from October 4 through 12 in certain central California areas including Madera and Fresno counties within the boundary of the national forest with a bag and possession limit of six birds. Numerous reports indicate an excel-and Phil Simonelli at fullback.

Moss, a freshman from Merced, and Bassett, another freshman from Delano, worked their way into the starting line-up for the first time as a result of their performance in the Harbor game, Kane said.

Tax Exemptions; How Far Can We Go In California? $90 Million In Revenue Being Lost Annually

(Ed. Note: While there is an apparently logical reason back of every property tax exemption granted in California, increasing cost of tax exemptions is creating a question, "Just how far can we go in this business of tax exemptions?" Following is an enlightening article on the subject.)

By James H. Quinn
State Board of Equalization

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 2 — The assessed value of privately owned property exempt from taxation in California increased by 5.9 percent during the past year to a record total of $1,401,768,000. Had these values been taxable, they would have produced approximately $90,000,000 in tax revenues and would have afforded that much tax relief to those property owners who do not qualify for exemptions.

Almost seven-tenths of the exempt values in 1958 were ascribed to the properties of veterans. The more than 1,146,000 veterans qualifying for exemptions constituted close to 8 percent of the state's population and were allowed property tax exemptions totaling $968 million. These figures represent increases during the year of 55,970 qualified veterans and $37,950,000 in assessed value. The average assessed value of the veterans' exemptions was $844. The number of veterans' exemptions and the total assessed value of exempt property have soared to levels 2½ times those of a decade ago.

Although veterans accounted for the largest part of the increase in total exempt values, the biggest relative gain occurred in the church exemption. The 12,848 churches qualifying for this exemption owned real property having an assessed value of $171 million — a figure 12 percent greater than that of a year ago. The 126 privately-owned colleges were afforded property tax exemptions totaling $72 million.

The second largest relative gain in the assessed value of exempt lent crop of these big mountain birds but the hunting pressure has never been very great. One of the objects of this special season is to allow the deer hunters an opportunity to crop some camp meat. The Sierra grouse season with a bag limit of two birds is open at the same time in the same area plus additional areas. Check the digest of hunting regulations for details.

property occurred in the "welfare" exemption category. The assessed value of these properties rose by 11 percent to reach $171 million. The welfare exemption total includes $73 million for hospitals, $31 million for schools of less than collegiate grade, $29 million for properties which are used both for schools of less than collegiate grade and religious purposes, $14 million for religious properties, and $44 million for other charitable properties.

Not included in any of the foregoing figures are householders' exemptions of $100 of personal property; exempt stocks, bonds, and other intangibles; properties owned by federal, state, and local governments (including the state university and state colleges); growing crops; and certain other exemptions for which applications need not be filed and which need not be enrolled by the county assessors.

DOCTOR URGES VACCINATION FOR POLIO

VISALIA, Oct. 2 — Dr. Elmo Zumwalt, acting health officer of Tulare county states that the first case of paralytic poliomyelitis has occurred in a two year old child in a family of father, mother and four children. None had received vaccine.

This is the first case of paralytic poliomyelitis reported in this county during 1958. During the past three years no paralysis has occurred in Tulare county except among non-vaccinated people.

Nationally it is probable that not more than one quarter of the population has been vaccinated. In Tulare county it is estimated that perhaps not more than 30% have received the vaccine. In as much as the disease has occurred in people up to the age of 40, it is recommended that everyone from babyhood to that age should have the vaccine, Dr. Zumwalt states.

The cost in hospital care resulting from one severe case would probably pay for all the vaccine that the entire county might use this year. The cost of one severe paralyzed individual over the balance of his lifetime is tremendous, it is pointed out.

With every doctor ready to give this vaccine Dr. Zumwalt strongly urged that people who have had no such protection, consider immediate guarding by asking for and receiving such treatment.

Paraphrasing the admonition to automobile drivers "see your doctor today. The life you save may be your own."

YOUR LEGISLATOR AT WORK!

Senator J. Howard Williams
32nd District
California State Legislature

One of the most ticklish problems, politically speaking, which confronts your legislators is that of the ever-increasing impact of the $1,000 veterans' property tax exemption on the units of local government in California. In the last ten years the combined value of such exemptions has more than doubled, and now exceeds $968 million. During the same period the additional tax bill other taxpayers must pick up per year because of the exemption has almost tripled, and now tops $65 million.

For the past year, a subcommittee of the Senate Interim Committee on Districts has been studying the effect of this exemption on local agencies. It first prepared a comprehensive factual report on the problem, the statistics of which certainly demonstrate the growing seriousness of the problem to those counties and other local units in which veterans are concentrated. This report made no recommendations, but did list 14 possible alternatives for action. These ranged from leaving things as they are, through having the state reimburse local units for the "lost" revenue, to complete repeal of the exemption.

The subcommittee used these alternatives as the basis for its recent public hearing, to which were invited state research and tax agencies, local officials and representatives of veterans' organizations. This meeting served one very important purpose. That was to assure several veterans' groups that the subcommittee is not already committed to recommend any form of legislative action proposing either repeal or any kind of change in the constitutional provision. Subcommittee hearings, including those scheduled for November, are exploratory, and intended to give every group concerned with the problem an opportunity to present its facts and opinions.

In response to questions of the group, the legislative analyst's office gave estimates as to the financial results of various alternatives, which are here adjusted to latest assessments. Four of these are most significant. Requiring the State to reimburse the local units for the "lost" revenue would transfer the whole $65 million for this year and larger sums for each succeeding year from property taxpayers to the state treasury. To limit the exemption to veterans who entered the service from California would reduce the cost to other taxpayers to about $39½ million this year. Limiting it to "disabled" veterans would reduce the cost to about $11 million. Granting it to each veteran only for the first ten years after discharge would cut the cost to about $10½ million.

The Board of Equalization furnished the subcommittee with detailed tabulations on the amount and effect of the exemption from its beginning in 1912. The Board fixed the cost to date of the exemption to non-exempt taxpayers at more than $582 million.

One veterans' organization offered a bold and thoughtful program for restricting the benefit to California veterans who saw actual service in real conflicts, but liberalizing its terms for the truly disabled or for widows and other survivors. Other organizations reserved their testimony until they complete their study of the subcommittee and other reports.

Legislation on the veteran's exemption will require affirmative action by the committee, the whole Legislature and the voters. The subcommittee is performing a valuable service for all these groups in gathering all the facts and information for their use.

Ike Does Not Oppose State Right To Work

President Eisenhower today declared that he has taken no position in opposition to state "Right to Work" laws.

In a letter to Senator William F. Knowland, candidate for Governor, the President said it had come to his attention that his position had been "erroneously represented in California despite the fact that it has been clearly stated several times."

The reference was to billboards put up by opponents of the Right to Work initiative on the November ballot purporting to show that President Eisenhower is against such legislation.

"I have never expressed myself one way or another on whether any state should exercise this jurisdiction, feeling, as I do, that this should be determined by the citizens of each state," the President wrote Knowland.

"Any statement indicating or implying that I have done so is a misrepresentation of the facts." The President further said:

"I will state it again.
